APPENDIX A: MINIMUM STANDARDS FOR COLLEGE ACCREDITATION		4

1. INTRODUCTION

This document must be read in conjunction with the current Accreditation Handbook.

BAC accreditation is a voluntary quality assurance scheme for independent providers of further and higher education and vocational training courses.

BAC College accreditation is the standard accreditation scheme for independent FE institutions, some HE institutions and training providers with courses which last more than six months. It covers a very wide range of institutions in terms of provision and size. While the same standard is required of all institutions accredited under this scheme, the range of provision on offer is very broad, including:

- Adult education and skills for life
- Business and professional education
- Creative and performing arts

- Specialist vocational training
- Study abroad placements
- Tutorial colleges
- University preparation

BAC's College accreditation scheme covers the full range of activities provided by a college or similar institution and is not restricted to specific courses within the total operation. This accreditation does not extend to activities which take place outside the institution itself (for instance, franchised programmes, satellite summer schools or separate branches, whether in the UK or overseas) or which are promoted and delivered under a different name, unless BAC has given specific approval for the inclusion of such activities within the institution's accreditation.

2. Eligibility for accreditation

Any independent education or training institution in the UK is eligible for College accreditation provided that the following requirements are met:

- The institution offers programmes of further education, higher education or training.
- The institution is able to provide evidence of its financial stability.
- Effective control of the institution is the responsibility of an accountable management based in the UK.
- The institution is led by a proprietor or designated principal/director, who must be legally resident in the UK and have clear contractual responsibilities for the running of the institution and for the quality of its work.
- There are no grounds for believing the proprietor, principal/director or any other senior manager to be unfit to have responsibility for the institution. Such grounds may include an assessment of any previous position held at another institution known to BAC, in particular any institution which consistently failed to meet BAC's standards or which failed to repay debts owed to BAC.

The following types of institution will not normally be considered eligible for college accreditation:

- Institutions which are wholly publicly funded, or which are wholly responsible to a government department or an institution in receipt of state grants, and thereby subject to Ofsted inspection or QAA audit.
- Institutions which are solely or predominantly providers of education for students of compulsory school age (i.e. 16 years and under).
- Institutions which are solely providers of courses in English as a foreign language (EFL) or English for speakers of other languages (ESOL).
- Institutions which only offer courses of less than six months duration – (please see Short Course Provider scheme document).

3. Accreditation process

For comprehensive information on the accreditation process please see the Accreditation Handbook.

4. Accreditation cycle

College accreditation is valid for four years. Accredited colleges are notified six months before the end of the accreditation period so that a full inspection can be arranged and the institutional report presented to the Accreditation Committee for consideration of re-accreditation before the accreditation period ends.

5. Inspection process

A full inspection is arranged following successful completion of the first stage of the application process. An inspection team with appropriate experience for the institution being inspected is formed and consists of a reporting inspector and usually one specialist inspector. It is usual practice for the inspection to take two days but the days allocated will reflect the breadth and size of the institution's provision. With newly-accredited institutions, an interim inspection is organised in the first year of accreditation. For accredited institutions, an interim inspection is organised in the middle of the four-year accreditation cycle.

Institutions are required to complete and submit a self-evaluation document assessing their quality assurance mechanisms against specific criteria prior to the inspection being conducted.

5.1 Inspection areas

A full inspection covers the following inspection areas:

- Management, Staffing and Administration
- Teaching, Learning and Assessment
- Student Welfare
- Premises and Facilities

Management of quality and the institution's quality assurance procedures are assessed throughout each area of inspection.

5.2 Minimum standards

The minimum standards for College accreditation are set out in Appendix A. Details are provided of the documents which must be supplied and reviewed and of the staff members who the inspectors will interview during the inspection.

Legal and regulatory compliance

All new applicants and those applying for reaccreditation are required to sign a declaration stating that the institution complies with all relevant statutory requirements in force in the country of operation, in connection with such matters as health and safety, safeguarding, employment law, copyright, disability provision, equal opportunities, planning consent, data protection and public liability. It is the institution's responsibility and the personal responsibility of the head of the institution to ensure that all requirements are met. BAC inspectors will not inspect the above areas but will note any observed breach of regulations. Although the compliance with statutory requirements is not a BAC minimum standard, evidence of non-compliance will provide the Accreditation Committee with grounds for refusal of accreditation.

6. Approved candidates for accreditation

The 'approved candidate for accreditation' process is available to any newly-established institution operating in the UK which has not yet recruited students to its programmes.

- The status of 'approved candidate for BAC accreditation' can be awarded following a successful candidacy inspection.
 - The institution will be approved as a 'candidate for BAC accreditation' if the Accreditation Committee is satisfied that the institution meets or exceeds BAC's minimum standards for premises, management, staffing, administration and documentation relevant to student welfare. The inspectors also need to be satisfied that robust quality assurance policies and systems are in place.
 - 'Approved candidate' status is awarded for a period of six months, during which time the institution must become fully operational.
 - If your institution fails to agree a date for the accreditation inspection within this period, its 'approved candidate' status will lapse, unless, exceptionally, the Accreditation Committee agrees to allow an extension.

7. Programmes and awards

BAC does not validate or accredit qualifications. BAC's policy is that institutions should offer courses leading to approved external awards granted by recognised awarding bodies. BAC does however accept that there may be instances where there is no appropriate external awarding body and that the institution will only offer internal awards. Under these circumstances, BAC's inspectors will consider the accuracy of any claims made by institutions as to the level and status of any internal awards. This will include a requirement for evidence of the extent to which the institution's internal awards are accepted for the purposes of employment or further study. BAC encourages institutions to involve external moderators in their assessment procedures.

8. Top-up inspections

BAC formally recognises the quality assurance processes of a number of other inspection and review bodies and where appropriate will consider 'top-up' inspections of those institutions which have undergone such a process. It is BAC's intention to minimise the burden placed on institutions which hold approved accreditation or Educational Oversight and to tailor inspection requirements to meet individual circumstances. Further details can be found in the Accreditation Handbook. Applicants who consider that they are eligible for a 'top-up' inspection should contact BAC head office to discuss their situation.

9. Accreditation fees

Annual accreditation fees based on the number of full-time equivalent (FTE) students are due in September each year. The exact fee payable depends on the number of students enrolled at the institution over the previous year. Accurate enrolment figures must be supplied to BAC once per year on request. If such figures are not supplied by the deadline given, the full maximum accreditation fees will be charged. Failure to pay the annual accreditation fees by the deadline given on the invoice will result in suspension and the possible withdrawal of accreditation.

10. Accreditation statements and marks

Institutions which have been awarded accreditation may use the statement of accreditation in their promotional materials, subject to certain conditions.

Acceptable forms of the statement are:

- "accredited by the British Accreditation Council for Independent Further and Higher Education as a College"
- "accredited by the British Accreditation Council as a College"
- "accredited by BAC as a College"
- "BAC accredited as a College"

Once accredited, institutions may use the BAC accreditation mark of the College accreditation scheme in their promotional materials, subject to certain conditions. The standard accreditation mark features the BAC logo, colour-coded to the specific accreditation scheme, and the word 'accredited'.

Colleges awarded 'approved candidate for accreditation' status must use the accreditation mark which incorporates the words 'accredited approved candidate'.

11. Contacting BAC

Further guidance and details of the generic requirements and responsibilities for BAC-accredited institutions can be found in the Accreditation Handbook. Please contact info@the-bac.org for further information.
