PART A – INTRODUCTION

1. Background to the institution

The Royal International University (RIU/the Institution) was founded in 2010 as the Mongolian Royal Academy and is based in Ulaanbaatar, the capital city of Mongolia. It was originally part of and grew out of the Ikh Zasag International University which was established in 1994. RIU holds degree awarding powers conferred and quality assured by the Ministry of Education, Culture, Science and Sport of Mongolia. In 2012, it established a partnership agreement with Virginia International University of the United States of America (USA) which enables Mongolian students to obtain internationally recognised degrees.

RIU is a private limited company. The President of RIU is supported by a Chief Executive Officer (CEO) and Director of Foreign Relations and Academic Affairs (DFRAA) whose role also incorporates the overall management of quality assurance. The Chief Executive Officer (CEO) reports to the President who, in turn, reports to the Chairman of the Governing Body. There is an Academic Council that reports directly to the President.

RIU offers undergraduate and postgraduate programmes through agreements with international universities. The opportunity to study in overseas countries such as the USA, the United Kingdom (UK), South Korea and Japan is available to RIU’s students.

The mission of the Institution is to establish an institute that provides a world class education through global networking that enables students from all backgrounds to become world class business leaders.

2. Brief description of the current provision

The Institution offers undergraduate degrees on the basis of two years of study in Mongolia followed by two years of study in a foreign location. In addition, it offers a single year of study in Mongolia followed by a single year of study in a foreign location for its postgraduate students in business administration and public administration.

There are six undergraduate degrees and two postgraduate degrees offered by the Institution. Three of the undergraduate degrees, business administration, human resources management and marketing are taught completely in English, while one, international relations is mainly taught in Mongolian. Two other courses, public administration and architecture, are completely taught in Mongolian. One master’s degree, public administration, is fully taught in Mongolian while the other postgraduate degree, in business administration, is fully taught in English.

The Institution also has six other undergraduate degrees approved but which are not running due to no enrolments having taken place. All its degree courses are validated until 2022. The Institution is accredited to offer courses leading to awards by two UK awarding bodies, which are the Institute of Administrative Management and the Institute of Commercial Management.

All delivery is through face-to-face teaching although the Institution is planning to offer online courses in the future.

At the time of the inspection, there were 442 students enrolled, all on full-time courses, the majority being female. Two students are under the age of 18. Most students are Mongolian but there are some international students studying at the Institution from South Korea, Japan and Kazakhstan.

The entry requirements are clearly set by the Mongolian Ministry of Education and the Institution follows these requirements.
The maximum capacity of the Institution is 600 students. The Institution has two internet connected Information Technology (IT) facilities with a total of 50 terminals and the library has access to 5,000 books and 7,000 electronic books as well as electronic journals. There are four dedicated rooms for private study after academic hours.

Enrolments only take place at the beginning of the academic year in September.

3. Inspection process

The inspection was carried out over two days by three inspectors. Interviews were held with the President, the Academic and Quality Assurance Director, staff responsible for administration, student support, libraries, IT and premises. In addition, interviews were held with a representative group of teaching staff and students. There were three teaching observations undertaken. The number of possible class observations was compromised by the first day of the inspection being declared, at short notice, a public holiday by the Mongolian government in honour of a visit by the President of the Russian Federation to Ulaanbaatar. Documentation was scrutinised and the dormitory residence accommodation for students was inspected. The staff cooperated fully with the inspection process and the arrangements for the inspection were very well organised.
PART B - JUDGMENT AND EVIDENCE
The following judgments and comments are based upon evidence seen by the inspector(s) during the inspection and from documentation provided by the institution.

This standard is judged to be: ☒ Met ☐ Partially Met ☐ Not Met

Comments

The organisational structure of the Institution is clearly set out in an organisation chart which details the reporting responsibilities of senior members of staff. The organisational structure clearly identifies the governance arrangements with the Governing Body overseeing the work of the President and Academic Council. The President oversees the work of the CEO and the executive management team. The linkage between governance and management is clearly set out in documentation and, from the evidence gathered by inspectors, the structure works effectively and efficiently. All staff are aware of the management structure and students understand the overall hierarchy of the Institution.

The Academic Council has autonomous decision making authority on academic matters and reports directly to the President thus ensuring that academic freedom is maintained.

Responsibility for risk assessment resides at various levels within the managerial and governance hierarchy with appropriate documentation on risk planning and assessment clearly articulated. The hierarchical approach ensures that necessary action in response to identified risks is approved by the Governing Body and effectively put into operation by the executive management team.

Relationships with other educational organisations are clearly set out and subject to contractual agreements where appropriate. These include recognition of the Institution’s status by the Mongolian Ministry of Education, Culture, Science and Sport as well as collaborative arrangements with overseas institutions and accreditations by various professional bodies for example Virginia International University and the Institute of Administrative Management. The arrangement with Wolverhampton University in the UK has lapsed and although the arrangements for students to be accepted on to Wolverhampton University’s courses are still operating efficiently its formal renewal has not yet been completed.

There are transparent channels of communication between stakeholders at all levels enabling the students to receive a high level of educational input and to take advantage of the opportunities made available for their self-development.

Comments

The Institution has produced an ambitious strategic plan covering the period from 2018 to 2023. The plan focuses on strengthening student opportunities and the quality of the provision and enabling the Institution to become the first entrepreneur Institution based on research and development, in Mongolia. The strategy is well supported by funding so that operational targets can be achieved. The plan is communicated through the Institution’s website and in promotional literature. Progress towards its achievement is reported on by means of annual reports.

The plan was developed by taking into account input from various stakeholders including students, alumni, the Ministry of Education and employers.

There is a systematic review of performance against strategic targets. This leads to appropriate revisions in operational activities or adjustment of targets as necessary which enable the strategic objectives to remain in focus. This ensures that the Institution remains committed to its strategic objectives and builds towards their achievement by making pragmatic adjustments necessitated by changes in circumstances.

This standard is judged to be: ☒ Met ☐ Partially Met ☐ Not Met

Comments
The management structure is very clearly set out and understood by all stakeholders. It shows levels of responsibility and an appropriate hierarchy spreading throughout the institution enabling effective upward reporting and downward supervision.

The committee structure is robust and each committee has clear terms of reference. The minutes of meetings are recorded and incorporate action plans and identify staff with responsibility for meeting such actions by prescribed deadlines. This enables the Institution to function efficiently and to effectively respond to changes in its operational environment in a considered manner.

Information management is seen as a key requirement for the success of the institution and all external information is carefully approved by the CEO before it is released. The Institution strives to ensure that its website is kept up to date and information contained on its intranet is regularly reviewed for accuracy. This helps to ensure that the potential for stakeholders to be misinformed is kept to a minimum.

Comments
The Institution employs administrative staff of an appropriate calibre and in sufficient number to enable the effective running of the Institution, including the provision of strong support to management. This enables it to carry out its stewardship and supervisory role in an effective and consistent manner. The administrative support is enhanced by the use of the electronic data and student support system (EDSSS). The EDSSS is a combined administration and virtual learning environment system.

Policies and procedures are well documented and effectively disseminated across the Institution ensuring that students and staff in particular are able to deal with any matters which arise in an appropriate manner in accordance with the Institution’s regulatory framework. Not all documentation has been fully localised to RIU and one document reviewed during the inspection still contained the name of the Institution from which it had been sourced.

The available facilities are of sufficient size to enable classes to be timetabled and rooms allocated appropriately.

Data is collected and collated efficiently and accurately and is fit for purpose. Similarly, administrative records are well documented and stored electronically in an efficient manner enabling ease of access as required. Staff records are held securely and kept up to date. A policy exists for the security of data including that of staff and students and it features on the risk register. The Institution employs specialist staff to maintain the integrity of its data and information systems.

The Institution verifies each student’s identity by his or her identity card. At periods when assessments are taking place, the student identity card is used to verify that the individual taking the assessment is bona fide. It will be beneficial to the Institution if it ensured that it had a procedure to collect contact details of students at least annually to make sure that its own records are as up to date as possible.

There are clear procedures for the secure administration of examinations and assessments.

The Institution employs satisfactory procedures for the moderation of assessments in their preparation stages and after they have been taken by students. This ensures the integrity of the assessments being taken.

The EDSSS enables students to access their records and transcripts in a timely and efficient manner which contributes to the beneficial image of the Institution as a well-run institution.

There is a clear policy for the collection and refund of student fees which provides appropriate protection for the Institution in the event of a student making an erroneous or unreasonable claim while at the same time providing a fair and transparent mechanism for a claim which has a sound basis.

The professional development needs of staff are identified through appraisal and other means, and measures taken to support staff to address these and gain additional qualifications, where relevant.

This standard is judged to be:

☒ Met ☐ Partially Met ☐ Not Met

Comments

The Institution has a clearly documented policy and procedure for the recruitment and continuing employment of appropriately qualified staff which includes the taking up of references and provision of curriculum vitae.

All claimed qualifications are verified before employment and the staff fully understand their roles and how they contribute to the Institution’s development. Meetings with staff and students confirmed that teaching staff in particular are highly regarded and are effective in carrying out their roles. Inspection findings confirm this view.

All roles are set out in clear job descriptions and comprehensive induction, gender equality and diversity policies are in operation which cover all staff. There is a clear staff complaints and appeals procedure which is included in the comprehensive staff handbook.

The annual performance appraisal system includes classroom observations for teaching staff. The appraisal system incorporates a review of professional development needs and the sense of a culture of continuous staff improvement is evident throughout the institution.

Comments

Programme proposal, design and validation are linked to the strategic development of the Institution and its mission. Periodic reviews take place every three years and include the views of various stakeholders including students, employers and alumni. This helps to ensure that the programmes are suitable for the needs of the relevant industries to which they relate. Such periodic reviews incorporate the provision of academic resources which are necessary to support the programmes. Additional academic resources of an ongoing nature are considered on a case by case basis.

Learning outcomes are clearly contained in the course files and available in the EDSSS.
Academic programmes are regularly reviewed through the Institution’s committee structure which incorporates student views through effective feedback mechanisms. Meetings are properly constituted and minuted enabling a robust audit procedure which helps to inform annual and periodic reviews.

Many of the modules are core across a number of programmes and are consistently delivered. The development of the EDSSS enables materials to be placed online for students to access easily and efficiently. The nature of the programmes offered is such that there is limited need for the provision of specialist equipment.

The annual budget cycle takes into account the requirements for the provision of course materials.

The views of students are represented in the planning of programmes and student feedback is provided on a regular basis through student committees. The programme activities posted on the EDSSS enable students to learn and explore subject matter in depth at their own rate.

Comments
The entry requirements are set out clearly in the programme descriptions and are available online. The campaign for student recruitment is applied on two levels, within the city of Ulaanbaatar and the provinces of Mongolia. The entry requirements state the necessary language requirements which is English in most cases. In terms of academic achievement, the examinations for entry to the universities in Mongolia are set by the Ministry of Education and successful students are certificated to enter the Institution’s courses.

The Institution applies an enrolment and admission policy which takes into account verification of claimed qualifications. Applications are administered efficiently including briefing on the nature of the programmes and the expectations of students admitted to them. The student enrolment and admission policy includes assessment of each applicant’s language ability where relevant. If the English language capability is not of a sufficient standard, a Mongolian student may enrol on a course taught exclusively in the Mongolian language.

The Institution is required by the Ministry of Education to recruit only students who have satisfied the national higher education requirements for bachelor’s degree entry. Foreign students entering undergraduate courses must satisfy the equivalent level of qualification, such as the General Certificate of Secondary Education at Advanced level. Similarly, students entering the master’s programmes are required to possess a bachelor’s degree.

The Institution does not employ recruitment agents.

Comments

The Institution provides for staff to undertake relevant research through its staff development and support policy. This provides motivation for the staff to develop their subject knowledge and keep their teaching up to date which in turn enables students to be exposed to current developments and issues in their subject areas.

The staff development and support policy provides for a financial contribution to be made for staff self-development and informal forums are established to enable staff to engage and share knowledge and research findings. There is a close connection with another local university which enables sharing of resources and collaboration in research activities which not only presents a variety of approaches but fosters collegiality across the two institutions. In addition, the Institution engages in the organisation of international academic conferences.

INSPECTION AREA - TEACHING, LEARNING AND ASSESSMENT

11. Academic staff are effective in facilitating student learning

| Academic staff are effective in recognising individual learning needs and preferred learning styles and adapting their delivery to meet these. | ☒ Yes ☐ No |

Comments

Teaching staff are all well qualified academically as well as being required to have teaching experience before appointment. The allocation of teaching is done at a departmental level, via a committee, so ensuring appropriate allocation of modules to individual staff.

Teaching observations are carried out on a regular basis enabling effective monitoring of consistency in delivery.

Teaching plans and associated formative assessments for all modules are linked to the Intended Learning Outcomes (ILOs) as are the summative assessments.
Teaching sessions are well planned with clear objectives and are appropriately related to specific learning outcomes.

Individual learning needs of students are effectively identified by staff through diagnostic tests, feedback from assignments and from interaction with students during teaching sessions. A mentoring period, during which staff are available for two hours a week to meet self-referred, or invited students, to discuss issues works well in ensuring individual needs are effectively addressed.

Teaching staff use a variety of approaches including formal lectures, group work, seminars and project assignments to encourage effective student participation and to develop independent learning skills.

Most teaching material used, with the exception of English language delivery, is available via the EDSSS, which is suitably supported by other online resources and material in the library.

12. Assessment is fair and appropriate for the level and nature of the courses, and students receive timely and supportive feedback on their work

| 12.1 | Students are provided with an assessment schedule, in which required coursework and revision periods are detailed in advance with clear submission dates. | ☒ Yes ☐ No |
| 12.2 | Assessment strategies are relevant to the content and nature of the courses and focused on measuring students’ achievement of the intended learning outcomes. | ☒ Yes ☐ No |
| 12.3 | Assessment tasks are clearly written, indicating what students need to do to meet stipulated levels of achievement. | ☒ Yes ☐ No |
| 12.4 | Students receive detailed and supportive verbal and written feedback on their assessments and overall performance and progress, which are effectively monitored. | ☒ Yes ☐ No |
| 12.5 | The institution takes appropriate steps to identify and discourage cheating, including plagiarism and other misdemeanours, and to penalise offenders. | ☒ Yes ☐ No |
| 12.6 | There are clear policies and procedures for students to claim mitigating circumstances and to appeal against marks awarded. | ☒ Yes ☐ No |

This standard is judged to be: ☒ Met ☐ Partially Met ☐ Not Met

Comments

A guide for each module is used effectively to ensure that students are aware of the module content, learning outcomes, assessment dates and requirements. Students confirmed they were well informed about the course schedule and content.

The teacher, who is delivering a module, designs all the assessments which are discussed with peers within the department. The assessments are then approved by the relevant Head of Programme before being signed off by the Director of Undergraduate or Postgraduate Programmes as appropriate. This process is robust and ensures all assessments are appropriate in content and level.

Students receive feedback on their performance by written assessments returned to them with comments attached plus discussions with staff should they require this. This works well and students confirmed their satisfaction with the feedback they receive.

Suitable advice and education on plagiarism is provided to students. This is allied to a clear and suitable policy on the penalties should plagiarism be detected. Plagiarism detection software is used on postgraduate but not undergraduate submissions and could usefully be extended to cover undergraduate work.

Mitigating circumstances and how to claim them are clearly defined in the Student Handbook. This was confirmed by the students.

Comments
Course materials are designed by individual staff to ensure they meet the ILOs of the module they are teaching.

The materials are suitable and include electronic presentations, book and online references and case studies. Course materials relating to subjects, which are not language orientated, are uploaded on to the EDSSS. However, this is not done for the English language provision. It would be beneficial if this were done to provide easy online access for students to resource material.

The curriculum is subject to periodic review and subsequent revalidation every three years. The review process requires taking feedback from employers, staff, partner colleges and alumni. This comprehensive approach ensures that the course content and materials are current and industry relevant.

Learning resources are available online, on or off campus, via students’ own computers or those provided by the Institution. This provision works well and is supported by the physical resources in the library. Some specialist resources, for example, for architecture, are provided at a local partner university via an appropriate agreement. This is suitable for resources that are only required on an occasional basis.

Comments

The Institution has trained and experienced staff who are responsible for student welfare. They provide advice and counselling within their capabilities and refer students if more specialist help is required. They are available when Institution is open and also by telephone and online in an emergency.

There is a comprehensive induction programme, supplemented by the EDSSS, which contains much information in an easy to navigate format and enables contact with students out of class hours. This includes information relating to the library and IT service provision as well as details relating to programme content, learning outcomes and assessments.

The induction programme and packs of information provide guidance on the pastoral support available and includes an emergency telephone number.

The Institution has a policy on the prevention of harassment and bullying as well as avoidance of discrimination and applies appropriate sanctions for abusive behaviour. Any transgressions will render offenders subject to student disciplinary procedures which have an escalating form of sanction leading to dismissal from the Institution.

Administrative staff are on hand to deal with non-academic and general queries. In addition, technology support staff and librarians are available to provide direction to students with technical issues which helps to engender a culture of student-centred learning.

The Institution itself is a safe and secure environment for study. There are very few students under the age of 18. The major threat to student safety is considered to be through online abuse and guidance is provided on avoiding or, if necessary, dealing with such occurrences.

14.8 There are no arrangements in place, such as a risk assessment, a policy wording and staff training, to protect students from the risks associated with radicalisation and extremism. This is not thought to be a major risk in Mongolia.

Comments

Students have access to teaching staff outside teaching and learning sessions and most communication takes place through the electronic student support system. Therefore, students can access teaching staff at any time and receive prompt responses that provide guidance and reassurance. The electronic student support system also enables students to review their academic progress incorporating constructive feedback on formative and summative assessments.

The electronic student support system also enables academic staff and administrators to monitor student progress and enables appropriate intervention. This, together with the student counselling service, helps students to achieve their intended goals or to switch courses when their results are not going as planned. As a result, there is a highly supportive student environment within the Institution.

Careers guidance days are available to students coming towards the end of their courses. In addition, academic staff are able to provide advice and guidance on career progression.

The student handbook includes a transparent complaints procedure, of which students are made aware at induction. This includes guidance on how students can make a complaint. At present, the complaints procedure allows appeals against academic judgment rather than concentrating on administrative matters. This could become extremely onerous for the Institution’s staff. Due to its robust moderation process ensuring fairness and transparency, students could be informed that the Institution will not accept appeals against academic judgement.

Guidance on effective study techniques is included within the induction programme and also in the EDSSS. Further guidance is made available on research methods for students intending to progress to postgraduate study.

Appropriate support is provided to students with special educational needs. Student counselling staff play a prominent role in providing support to such students. As a result, the Institution is recognised as one which encourages diversity and has a caring attitude for its student population which is underpinned by a culture of support that is evident throughout the Institution.

Comments

There is only a very small minority of international students enrolled at the Institution as most of the intake are Mongolian nationals. Most international students will normally reside with relatives or friends. Nevertheless, international students receive appropriate information relating to travel and life in Mongolia through the website.

International students are provided with a useful International Students Pre-arrival Guide. Specific guidance on the local area is also provided at induction. In addition, international students are able to obtain continuing guidance throughout the period of their programme from the staff.

Support for international students takes into account relevant cultural and religious practices. Where students do not have access to first language speakers among the staff at the Institution, appropriate provision is made if specific circumstances warrant it. This would normally be in the case of a student needing to take advice on a personal matter or where specific technical or legal guidance is required.

17. Student attendance is measured and recorded regularly and effective remedial action taken where necessary

17.1 There is an appropriate, clear and published policy on required student attendance and punctuality. ☒ Yes ☐ No ☐ NA

17.2 There are effective procedures and systems to enforce attendance and punctuality. ☒ Yes ☐ No ☐ NA

17.3 Accurate and secure records of attendance and punctuality, at each session, are kept for all students. ☒ Yes ☐ No ☐ NA

17.4 Data on attendance and punctuality is collated centrally and reviewed regularly and absences followed up promptly. ☒ Yes ☐ No ☐ NA

This standard is judged to be: ☒ Met ☐ Partially Met ☐ Not Met

Comments

There is a clearly articulated and published attendance and punctuality policy and robust procedures in operation. Students are in no doubt as to their responsibility to attend and be prompt.

Rigorous records are effectively maintained and the attendance procedures include appropriate systems to identify absences and ensure they are quickly followed up. Unauthorised or irrelevant reasons for absence are addressed in accordance with procedures which eventually culminate in dismissal if satisfactory improvements are not made.

Medical evidence justifying student absence, especially during periods of assessment, is not routinely collected and it would be beneficial if such a procedure were established to verify the reason for the absence formally.

19.5 The institution supports and encourages peer interaction through a variety of channels, e.g. social network forums and channels. ☒ Yes ☐ No ☐ NA

This standard is judged to be:  ☒ Met ☐ Partially Met ☐ Not Met ☐ NA

Comments

The Institution encourages students to engage in the active social programme which is provided in order to improve students’ personal skills and abilities. Students are able to participate in an Arts Festival and a Sports Olympiad which takes place in Ulaanbaatar and includes teams from other universities in the city.

Most students actively take part in the social activities which help to broaden their interests and experience thereby developing their employability credentials.

All activities planned by the Institution take account of the requests of the students and are properly supervised mostly, but not exclusively, by academic staff.

Opportunities are available for students to engage in extramural activities, particularly in the form of industry visits or being invited to take part in professional interest groups.

Students also form their own social networks which are relevant to their course of study.

Visitors are logged in and out and are accompanied at all times. General guidance on health and safety is prominently displayed in suitable areas within the buildings. These provisions are appropriate.

The buildings are well signed with noticeboards in key positions providing both specific and general information for staff, students and visitors.

The premises are suitable in their design for an educational institution and provide the necessary space for circulation and to welcome visitors.

Academic staff provide their requirements to the librarian in advance of each academic year. The librarian can then order new stock as necessary after getting the necessary budget approved from the CEO and, if necessary, the Governing Body.

The library provides a quiet zone with adequate space for students to study. Alternative accommodation is available to students to undertake group work.

The librarian is well qualified, and students report that she provides a high quality and effective service.

The library is open times are appropriate and students have access to a wide range of texts and electronic books. The maximum capacity of the library is 150 students. This provision provides adequate access for undergraduate and masters students.

Comments

The Institution has a suitable number of internet-connected personal computer stations in the library. In addition, it has an information technology suite. As a result, there is a good number of 50 terminals all with internet access. The Institution building has a wireless network that provides a reliable high-speed internet connection for students.

The Institution operates a virtual learning environment, which is Mongolian specific and offered by the Ministry of Education. This system provides access for students to both learning resources, on a module by module basis, as well as general administrative data. This was confirmed by students as being both effective and comprehensive in providing learning resources. Inspection findings confirm this view.

The IT manager develops an annual IT plan that identifies both hardware and software maintenance and upgrade needs for the coming year. This is then submitted to the CEO for approval and for budget allocation. The IT infrastructure is well managed by two IT technicians who provide support to both staff and students. The Institution’s partner university provides additional backup support as and when necessary.

The Institution has good internet connectivity for access to general online resources in addition to the EDSSS which provides a portal to Institution online resources.

Comments

Module surveys and an annual course survey are used to obtain student views which, taken with employer and alumni views, form part of the comprehensive annual course report.

A class leader for each course meets weekly with the Dean of Students to discuss any issues. There is also a Student Council with elected representatives. These two mechanisms provide opportunities to obtain effective student feedback.

Feedback to stakeholders takes place via a number of mechanisms, which in some cases are informal.

Review and revalidation of programmes on a regular basis involves external assessors as appropriate.

Institutional systems ensure the effective consideration of programme reports and that appropriate actions are incorporated into action planning.

Comments

The staff have a clear common aim to improve the quality of delivery across the Institution. The Institution has all the key elements of an effective quality assurance system in place.

The Institution does not have a formal Quality Manual, which makes navigating its quality systems challenging. As a result, not all staff are clear about all the elements of the quality process. Quality policies exist, however, descriptions of how they should be implemented are insufficiently documented.

At module level, data on student performance and satisfaction is gathered, analysed and action plans are proposed by module leaders. These are then considered at departmental level before being forwarded to the DFRAA by the Head of Department (HOD). The DFRAA and CEO discuss the reports and confirm action plans as appropriate.

At course level, the constituent module results are combined by the HOD to provide a course report which includes action plans. This is done at the end of each semester and the reports are considered by the Programme Committee, membership of which includes HODs and the DFRAA. Any issues or actions to be taken are then fed back by the HOD to individual academic staff as necessary.

Year on year performance data is automatically produced by the EDSSS and is considered by the CEO and the DFRAA as part of the module and course review and action planning process.

The small size of the Institution allows the CEO to consider all module and course reviews and use them to inform the quality of the student learning experience and the strategic planning of course development.

Advice and support from an external assessor during the periodic review process is available via the local partner university.

Whilst the quality processes are not fully described in a single document, quality is effectively monitored and reviewed. Appropriate action plans are in place and implemented well to enhance provision and ensure equity in the treatment of all students.

The institution has a strong commitment to, and procedures that facilitate, continuing enhancement of its provision

Good practice is effectively identified and disseminated across the institution.  ☒ Yes  ☐ No

End-of session course and annual programme reports include improvement and ongoing developments made and identify further areas requiring enhancement.  ☒ Yes  ☐ No

RECOMMENDED AREAS FOR IMPROVEMENT

It is recommended that the Institution establishes a major incident recovery plan and an audit committee to augment its internal reviews of financial probity and audits of procedures and systems.

It is recommended that the arrangements with Wolverhampton University for receiving students on to the University’s programmes are renewed formally.
