This standard is judged to be: ☒ Met ☐ Partially Met ☐ Not Met

Comments

The views of all relevant stakeholders are collected, analysed and evaluated regularly. The feedback mechanisms include a detailed lecturer performance evaluation completed by students each semester, a student focus group, and staff surveys administered by the HR department.

Annual employer and industry surveys are also conducted to gather the views of employers and placement providers.

Appropriate action is taken where required in response to direct stakeholder feedback.

Appropriate feedback is obtained through formal student representation. Each class has an identified class president, who represents the views of the student cohort and is a useful conduit of information between the Institution and the group. Class presidents are connected through social media platforms to share ideas.

The outcomes of surveys and stakeholder feedback are effectively communicated to stakeholders through social media channels and staff briefings. The LSPR Founder also writes regular letters on key developments and whole organisation responses to feedback so that stakeholders are aware of this. There are plans to provide more specific feedback to students on the actions taken as a result of their feedback.

The Institution has a very broad range of quality management policies and standard operating procedures. These are very clearly documented and shared via a dedicated webpage, ensuring all stakeholders have easy access.

A wide range of appropriate and well-established quality assurance systems and procedures are in place and managed effectively by a dedicated team. This ensures that the expectations of the Ministry of Education are met, and the Institution can manage the quality of provision in line with its mission and vision. The Management Representative Committee regularly reviews quality performance reports to help inform the strategic decision-making process.

A broad range of performance indicators and metrics are in place. Performance is regularly reviewed at module, programme and institutional level against these benchmarks to identify areas for improvement.

Managers regularly compile reports which present the outcomes of detailed internal audits, including student satisfaction and achievement performance at course and programme level. Appropriate action plans are completed where required.

Senior managers systematically review the quality of the student experience each semester. In addition, students also have the support of the student guidance office to ensure that they are treated fairly. Students confirmed that they are well treated.

Nominated course coordinators and academic leads regularly present summary reports of academic performance, which includes analysis of year-on-year results on student satisfaction, achievement levels, completion rates. However, reports do not always include explicit consideration of progression to further study or employment.
Senior leaders review general performance reports. These include data analysis and staff performance along with a review of resource requirements. The outcomes of reviews come from academic and support departments on a regular basis and are used to inform decisions on the quality of provision and level of student satisfaction, aligned to the strategic aims of the Institution.

The revalidation of courses involving international examination and international Higher Education Institution (HEI) partners includes advice and guidance from external assessors. On other LSPR courses, industry representatives are often consulted to ensure that revalidation of courses reflects the needs of industry. The use of external assessors specifically is not standard practice however across all programmes.

The Institution has a broad range of systematic mechanisms in place to review the performance of its academic programmes, including consideration of programme reports, against set performance criteria. This leads to the development of action plans to help enhance the quality of provision over time.
